

2016 APAM Scholarship Recipients

Ben Kohler has been working in the construction industry since 2009. He spent two summers as an intern working for Ajax Paving and upon graduation from Michigan Technological University in 2011, he was hired full time by Ajax. Having served as both a project manager and estimator for the asphalt division, Ben finds his passion serving in whatever capacities best suit the company and their goals. Ben would like to take this moment to thank Ajax Paving and their support over the four years of his continued education. In Spring of 2017, Ben will graduate from Oakland University with his Masters in Business Administration.

Justin Daavettila is currently in his senior year at Michigan Technological University in the civil engineering program. The past three summers he has worked for MDOT, first in design out of Lansing and his second and third he worked as a construction aide at the Brighton TSC. Justin comes from a very large family of 13 children, in his free time he plays hockey and golf.
